Blacks: Annual Race Fight Just Came Early This Year

By LEE BARRIS

SAN BERNARDINO — The confrontation yesterday on the campus of San Geronimo High School between black and white students was "something of a seasonal thing" in the opinion of one black student.

"I don't really disagree about the end of the school semester," the student said.

What started yesterday's fighting that sent a number of students injured and at least two hospitalized?

Black students who were interviewed felt they could not repeat any one incident that set off yesterday's fighting.

However, they said it was a carryover from individual fights between black and white students on Thursday.

They said they were not the first to fight, but they said they were not the last.

Black student, Tyrone Jenkins, said he spent yesterday morning looking for a white student.

He said he found him in the hallway and they fought.

Jenkins said he was not the first to fight, but he was not the last.

After the non lunch period, the black student said.

However, according to Jenkins and Cheryl Clark, 17, much had taken place before that.

White students had approached black students early yesterday morning and said they would meet the blacks in the school quad at noon for a showdown.

According to Jenkins and Cheryl Clark, who is sister of the black student, Clark, the showdown was to be at 12 noon.

At some point the white students showed a group of black students across the campus to the gym.

A fight started between black and white girls but was broken up by a security guard.

A group of blacks kept up a white boy in a hallway. They accused the white boy of making a black girl the previous day.

At this point, the police came on the scene. The blacks estimated it was a little after 1 p.m.

Why did it happen?

Joseph Jenkins, 16, Tyrone Jenkins' brother, said.

Black and white students should be able to go to school together without any trouble.

Whites: Blacks Started It But Whites Kept It Going

By PATRICK SHEERAN

SAN BERNARDINO — White and Chinese students interviewed after the disturbances yesterday at San Geronimo High School agree that the incident was caused by the smashing of the windows of a car owned by a black student.

The white students said that the fighting between blacks and whites in the quad yesterday was probably the result of blacks seeking revenge for the damage to the car.

But two white student leaders, Tim Green, the student body president, and Ryan Nadel, senior class president, said that white students continued the fight with name-calling and threats to harm the whites and those the blacks carrying black students.

Both white and Chinese students who were interviewed yesterday afternoon agree that Chinese were not involved in the fighting and made definite steps to avoid it by staying in classrooms.

According to a Chinese girl, Maria Kinsman, 16, who was present when white students threw bricks and rocks at a bus full of Chinese students.

"I don't understand why they kept throwing rocks at the Chinese bus," said Larry Vilgus, president of the school's MEXA chapter, a Chinese organization.

Vilgus said he urged other Chinese not to get involved and, at the time of the initial outbreak in the quad, he gathered Chinese students into the building.

Vilgus, Green, Nadel and Jan Kinsman, 17, senior, confirmed that white students threw objects at the school buses.

Nadel, "but they kept it going."

According to white students, some participants and some observers, the fight happened yesterday afternoon.

During lunch time in the quad, a group of black students charged a group of white students. A white student, Kinsman, said.

"There was a lot of name-calling and threats to harm the whites and those the blacks carrying black students."
