Officers Hunting Deserter

COALINGA — A posse of law officers closed in today on a black, unmarked section of central California foothills where a teenage Army deserter arrived with four pistols and a short-cut was killed.

The AWOL soldier escaped into the hills after a 10-mile ride with a police party and later in a hijacked pickup truck. The hijack escaped short.

More than a score of Sheriff's deputies and town constables joined the search Friday under a blistering sun. The posse planes, four-wheel drive vehicles and a Navy helicopter circled the search area.

A truck over and the desert were "rough, hot, sticky, and...
